HOPE AT FARM HILL.

Sounds Heard by the Rescuing Party in Farm Hill Mine.

Probable that Some of the Entombed Men are Still Alive.

The Difficult Work of Rescue Pushed with Renewed Vigor.

Possible that the Miners May be Reached by Daylight.

Hope Renewed at Farm Hill.

DUNBAR PA., June 19 The town is wild with excitement to-night. About 6 o'clock the rescuing party heard coming through the wall of coal and slate on which they were working a faint sound, often repeated, which was unmistakably that of a miner's pick. The news spread like wild fire to the surface and thence through the village. In a short time a thousand men, women and children were crowded about the entrance to the mine. Meanwhile the rescuers set to work with renewed vigor.

Only two men at a time can work in the passage where the party are and these are being constantly relieved. The miners express varying opinions as to the length of time it will take them to reach the imprisoned men. Some say ten hours, others twenty four. The rescuers fear no danger and are not likely to meet with any trouble. There is the wildest speculation as to how many of the unfortunate men are alive. The miners express the fear that most of them were killed by the explosion.

Late to night General Manager Hazard said that they have hopes of reaching the men before daylight. A corps of physicians is waiting in readiness and every provision is made to take care of such of the unfortunates as may be alive. The suspense among the anxious watchers above is awful.

Nicaragua Company Meeting.

DENVER June 19 The third annual meeting of the Nicaragua Canal Construction company was held at the office of the company in Denver to day. The following named stockholders were elected directors for the ensuing year. Warner Miller, A. C. Cheney, Alfred M Hoyt, W. L. Scott, J. F. O'Shaunessy, J W. Miller, R A. Lancaster, J. L. McCauley, N. K Fairbanks, Smith M Weed, Henry R Hoyt, Robert Sturgis and Edward W. Holbrook.

Messrs Alexander T. Mason and William B McVicar came on from New York to attend the meeting. The present officers of the company are: President, Warner Miller; vice president, A C. Cheney, secretary, J W. Miller, and treasurer, Henry R. Hoyt The attorneys of the company are Messrs Daley, Hoyt and Mason, of New York. The company is at present actively engaged in the construction of the Nicaragua canal, work having been commenced about October 8th, 1889.

Immediately after the adjournment of the canal company meeting the first annual meeting of the Nicaragua Mail, Steam Navigation and Trading company was held The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: A. O Cheney, Alexander T. Mason, John T. Sproull, Jose E. Munoz and Samuel C Miller. This company owns and operates the line of steamers which ply between the port of Greytown and Granada, in the republic of Nicaragua, by way of the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua It holds from the government of Nicaragua the exclusive privilege of navigating the waters by steam The greater part of the inland commerce of the country passes over this line

Reed Referred It.

CHICAGO, June 19. A Washington special to the Herald says: While nine tenths of the members of the house of representatives were expecting a fight over the question of the reference of the silver bill to day, the bill was reposing calmly in the custody of the committee on coinage, weights and measures and no one knows when it will be reported As the committee is said to be unfavorable to the measure it may be presumed that the bill will not be reported in a hurry. The speaker under one of the new rules quietly referred the bill without laying it before the house Reed is opposed to the bill He made a careful canvass of the house yesterday and declared that free coinage would carry.

THE SILVER BATTLE.

Proceedings in the Two Houses of Congress Yesterday.

Speaker Reed Strikes a Large Sized Snag in the House.

A Fight Made on His Reference of the Silver Bill.

On a Close Vote His Action is Finally Not Sustained.

Fifty First Congress

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 19 The following bills were among those reported and placed on the calendar To adopt regulations for preventing collisions at sea, to authorize corporations to become surety in certain cases in the courts of the United States

The senate resumed consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill

Without action the bill was laid aside

A message of the president in relation to reciprocal commercial treaties with the Latin American nations was received and in connection with it Hale presented an amendment to be offered to the tariff bill as follows. "And the president of the United States is hereby authorized without further legislation to declare the ports of the United States free and open, to all products of any nation of the American hemisphere, upon which no export duties are imposed, whenever and so long as such nation shall admit to its ports free of all national, provincial, municipal and other taxes, flour, corn meal, and other bread stuffs, preserved meats, fish, vegetables and fruits, cottonseed oil, rice and other productions including all articles of food, lumber, furniture and all other articles of wood, agricultural implements and machinery, mining and mechanical machinery, structural steel and iron, steel rails, locomotives, railway cars and supplies, street cars refined petroleum or such other products of the United States as may be agreed on"

After eulogies of the deceased New York representatives, Nutting and Wilber, the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mills objected to approval of the journal on the ground that it was not read in full by the clerk.

The speaker ordered a full reading The clerk proceeding read that portion of the journal which disclosed the reference of the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures.

McKinley moved that the journal be approved and demanded the previous question despite Mills' protest that he was entitled to recognition to move a correction in the journal.

Springer raised the point of order that the journal contained a record of something which had never happened.

The speaker replied that that was for for the house to decide and directed the clerk to call the roll

The clerk proceeded, when Springer, amid applause from his party colleagues, entered a vigorous protest addressing the speaker, saying: "You can ignore the rights of the representatives of the people, but the people will pull you down sir, at the polls next November and your party with you"

The house refused to order the previous question by a vote of 102 to 117, amid loud democratic applause.

The following republicans voted with the democrats in the negative: Messrs Bartine, De Haven, Kelly, Kerr of Iowa, Lind, Morrow and Townsend of Colorado

Mills offered a resolution reciting that the order of reference made by the speaker, referring the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures, was incorrect, and made without authority under the rules, and resolving that the journal be corrected by striking therefrom this entry.

Cannon argued that the senate amendments would require consideration in committee of the whole and that being so, it was the speaker's duty to refer the bill first to the committee on coinage, weights and measures, while the resolution sought to strike out the recital of the fact.

Mills characterized Cannon's position as the boldest, most reckless and absurd position he had ever heard maintained in a legislative body. Under the constitution the journal was to be kept by the house, not by the speaker or his clerks. Though the republican party was false to its pledges in the matter of silver the democratic party would give the people free and unlimited coinage of silver. The people would ask the republicans why, when they were sent here as the friends of silver, they voted to prevent the consummation of the people's wishes and the fulfillment of their promises?

Peters, of Kansas, though declaring himself a free coinage man, sustained the speaker's action, contending that under the rules it was the speaker's duty to refer the bill as he had done

Biggs, of California, asked a question with such vehemence as to draw forth the laughter of the house, which was renewed when Biggs in perfect good nature but totally oblivious of the speaker's gavel continued to put his questions

Finally the speaker asked sternly: "Will the gentleman from California be in order?" "I will," replied Biggs, in a meek, pleasant voice which again gave rise to merriment.

Crisp, of Georgia, submitted an argument to show that under the rules the speaker had not the power to refer the bill as he had done.

Springer, of Illinois, contended for the right of the house to revise the journal and make it show what the majority of the house decided it should show. The purpose of referring the bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures was to prevent the house from voting on the question of concurrence in the senate amendments The rules which it was claimed were intended to allow the majority to do business and produce results was now prostituted to the base purpose of gaging the majority

Bland, of Missouri, held that no other course was open but to strike the erroneous reference of the bill from the journal. That would place the bill on the speaker's table again and allow the house to get at it

Butterworth, of Ohio, said the time had not yet come when the republican party was willing to abdicate its control over the business of the house. That question would be put next fall but not in time to affect this question

McMillin, of Tennessee "But will be in time for this question to affect it." [Democratic applause]

Continuing, Butterworth held that the real question before the house was whether or not the speaker had authority to refer the bill to a committee and not whether it was or was not properly referred The question arose whether the speaker was authorized to make the reference and he contended that he was so authorized. Rule 21 gave the speaker authority to refer public bills to appropriate committees.

Springer argued that the silver bill was not properly "under the rules" before the house yesterday because the business on the speaker's table had not been reached

Butterworth said the pending proposition correctly stated was to unhorse the republican majority and to put the democratic minority in the saddle The republicans would not abdicate in favor of the democrats, until at least they should determine that they were unable to conduct the business of the majority. [Republican applause] He was in favor of early consideration of the silver bill.

Anderson, of Kansas, while declaring himself an earnest advocate of free coinage maintained the correctness of the speaker's ruling, but he wanted to ask the chairman of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, whether the committee would give the house a chance to vote upon the measure

Conger, of Iowa, as chairman of that committee, replied that as far as he personally was concerned he would make every effort to secure legislation on this subject.

Crisp said the committee on rules might interfere as it did to prevent a vote on the free coinage of silver once before during this session.

Mills, of Texas, said the point he made was under the existing rules and by them the silver bill remained upon the speaker's table to be disposed of as the house, and not the speaker, should determine

Breckinridge, of Kentucky, argued that if the speaker went beyond the scope of his authority in reference of the bill, his action was not only erroneous, but illegal and void.

The speaker said he desired the members of the house to divest themselves of the idea that any unusual procedure had taken place in connection with this bill. The reference of bills of this kind, and in this way, had been of daily occurrence since the adoption of the present rules The chair desired also that the house should know that this particular transaction did not take place in a corner. In the regular course of business the journal clerk had informed the speaker that among the bills to be referred under the rules to the appropriate committees was the silver bill with the senate amendments. The speaker had been asked whether he had any particular direction to make in regard to it. Knowing the bill to be one of grave public importance and anxious that he should have all possible light on the subject, the chair had consulted the democratic members of the committee on rules (Blount and McMillin) and the gentlemen from Missouri and Illinois (Bland and Springer), not for the purpose of throwing any responsibility upon them, but in order that he might benefit by any light they might be able to give. After conversing with these gentlemen it had seemed clear to the chair that the rules of the house covered the question and that his duty was to treat the bill as he would treat another. Accordingly, the clerk was not directed to make any change in regard to the reference. The house must bear in mind that this was not a question of politics or currency: it was a question of parliamentary law and the decision of the chair was rendered in an effort to carry out the rules the house had adopted If not satisfied with the reference directed by the speaker under the present system of rules, the house could change the reference. He felt it was a question the house ought to determine. He would therefore overrule the points of order and submit the question to the house

Cannon moved to table Mills' resolution, and on a seconding vote this was carried, 120 to 110. Morrow, of California, Bartine, of Nevada, and Townsend, of Colorado, voted with the democrats They were overlooked by the speaker in the first count, but Morrow called attention to the omission and it was rectified.

On a vote by tellers, the motion to table was lost, yeas 118, nays 123

The question then recurred on Mills' resolution and it was agreed to, yeas 121, nays 117 At the conclusion of the roll call the vote stood, yeas 119, nays 117. The change of one vote would be necessary to defeat the resolution by a tie vote and that change was made by Funston, of Kansas, amid derisive cheers from the democrats. This left the vote, yeas 118, nays 118, but the change proved unavailing, as Abbott, of Texas, and Bullock, of Florida, whose names were not recorded, stated they had voted in the affirmative, and the speaker, accepting their statements, the vote then stood yeas 120, nays 118 Then McKinley arose and changed his vote to the affirmative and the vote was finally announced, yeas 121, nays 117

McKinley was then recognized to move reconsideration and also to move adjournment,

Mills managed to sandwich in a motion to lay the motion to reconsider on the table.

The motion to adjourn was lost, yeas 119, nays 120

The vote then recurring on Mills' motion to table the motion to reconsider, it was agreed to, yeas 121, nays 114

Mills then moved to approve the journal as amended, asking permission to withdraw the preamble, reciting that the reference made by the speaker, referring the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures was incorrect under the rules of the house and done without authority under said rules

McKinley objected and the question recurring on the adoption of the preamble, it was lost, yeas 119, nays 121 [Republican applause]

Springer moved the approval of the journal as amended, pending which question, upon motion of McKinley, the house adjourned

Handling the Autograph Hunter

Autograph hunters are the bane of famous people, who are obliged to use their wits to circumvent the enemy, says the Lynn, (Mass) Item. The other day Kate Field was approached by an album holder, who was surprised to see her write the information that he could subscribe for her newspaper at $4 a year He probably took the hint, and others who may glance over his book do the same. Jean Ingelow has hit upon a clever plan. She has been for a long time interested in securing the necessary funds for restoring and repairing the old St Lawrence church at Evesham, England, of which her brother-in law is rector. Believing that her many admirers, if they value her autograph highly, ought to be willing to pay something for them, especially when the money is to be devoted to a charitable purpose, Miss Ingelow has made a large number of copies of her favorite poems, dating and signing each with her name, and has placed them in the hands of her American publishers, Messrs. Roberts Bros., Boston, to be sold at $3 each to whosoever may desire them. She will pay no attention to the appeals of autograph hunters in the future, but when the supply above noted is exhausted she will furnish a new lot. It ought to help out the Evesham parish, and doubtless will.

The board of public works has ordered that asphalt pavement be laid on Fifteenth street in Denver. This will be an excellent way of experimenting.

The very latest El Paso county publication to make its appearance is the Woodland Park News. The first issue presents a neat typographical appearance, and contains an illustrated write up of the beautiful mountain resort.

Senator Quay has not taken a very prominent part in the silver battle in the senate, but the announcement is made that on the day the free coinage bill passed he succeeded in capturing a drumfish which ranks among the largest that has ever been caught on the Jersey coast.

The Denver papers are worried because it is thought that the census will not show more than 90,000 population. They also reported yesterday one suicide and two murders. Something ought to be done to stop these tragedies for the benefit of the census, if not for good morals or the safety of human life.

We will be very glad to print the names of those who have been overlooked by the enumerators. There is no city where an incomplete enumeration is so likely as in this. We have a floating population of from one to three thousand who will not appear anyway. It is therefore very desirable that the others should.

The house and Mr. Reed seem to have fallen out. We trust the house will not forget itself and assume that it has any control over public business. It is only a few days since Mr. Reed told the house it should not vote on the "free coinage" proposition. It should remember the pauper labor in Europe, the G. O. P. and the shades of Lincoln and be more obedient to Mr. Reed.

Already the Behring sea difficulty has made its annual appearance. A fleet has sailed from Victoria, British Columbia, for the sealing grounds, and an English man of war is said to be cruising in the same waters. Behring sea is bounded on the north and west by Asia, and on the south by a string of islands and the Alaskan peninsula and on the east and north by Alaska itself. It extends from the fiftieth to the sixty fifth degree in latitude and from one hundred and sixty to one hundred and ninety-five degrees in longitude. It is, therefore, in a measure, land locked, but for that matter so are all the waters of the globe. The principles of international law are very simple, but the difficulty lies in the application of them to the rights of the two governments. Every nation has a right of sovereignty over the navigable rivers which flow through its territory; to the sea coast adjoining its territory to the extent of a marine league (three and one half English miles); and to the navigable waters included in bays and between headlands and arms of the sea. All the rest of the salt water is considered to be the property of all nations for their common use and enjoyment. The point in dispute is how large a body of water can be considered as between headlands and therefore subject to the jurisdiction of the country adjoining. For instance, no one would for a moment doubt the right of the United States to control the waters of Delaware Bay within a line drawn from Cape May to Cape Henlopen, but when you draw a line from Key West to the mouth of the Rio Grande and attempt to control the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, the question grows in difficulty, and when you reach such a body of water as Behring sea, the application of the principle becomes still more involved. England on the one hand claims that Behring sea is as much the property of all nations as is the Atlantic, the India ocean or the other big sheets of water, while we claim that having bought Alaska from Russia we bought all her channel rights and interests, along with them the exclusive right to the seals. The simple question is then: Is Behring sea such a body of water that according to the law of nations we should have control and jurisdiction of it, or is it an open sea as claimed by England? And here the matter rests. And probably will rest until some conflict makes the subject of enough importance to be finally disposed of.

The captain of the Salvation army in Leadville was arrested and lodged in jail Tuesday night for obstructing the streets.

Fully 25,000 quarts of Grand valley strawberries have been either shipped to the mountains or sold in the local markets.

Immense fires have been raging in the timber, back of the range southeast from Meeker this week. The dense volumes of smoke were plainly discernible from that town.

The Fort Collins cheese factory has been running at full capacity for some time. The farmers are happy to have a market for their milk and the people of Fort Collins prefer home-made cheese to imported.

The Meeker flour mill made its final run a few days ago and was then closed down till the fall. Four thousand five hundred bushels of wheat passed through the rollers since they were first started to revolve.

Starving Japanese.

Chicago Tribune.

John B. Hall, an English barrister, who has been in Japan nearly a year, stopped at the Richelieu for a few hours last evening on his way from San Francisco to New York. He predicts serious trouble as the outcome of the famine in certain parts of Japan, and cites one incident as an illustration.

"The high price of rice and consequent starvation," said he, "affect the greater part of Japan. In some localities the natives have for a long time been living on straw. The people in the cities are so busy with improvements and new enterprises that they don't hear the cries of the sufferers. It is certain that this continued destitution will result in bloodshed. The natives are planning to do something desperate to better their condition.

"At Tottori Kell one day about the middle of April, twenty Shizaku marched with drawn swords to the house of Kimura Sahei, a rich rice merchant, and demanded that he assist the poor. They charged the merchant with monopolizing the rice crop to the detriment of the people and declared that they would behead him unless he stopped exporting the food until after the wants of the sufferers had been relieved. During the menacing demonstration the police arrived and arrested the disturbers."

While campaigning in Kentucky in the early days of the war, General Garfield bought a farm near Prestonsburg for a few hundred dollars. Recently Mrs. Garfield sold the tract to speculators, receiving $7000 for it.

The arrangement between the Colorado Midland and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road was completely broken yesterday. As announced the through trains passed over the Rio Grande yesterday between this city and Manitou, and late in the afternoon orders were received to the effect that hereafter all trains on the Midland would be run over the Rio Grande and all trains leave the Rio Grande depot. Manager Collbran, Auditor Sells and other Midland officials were in Denver all day and information regarding the new arrangement could not be secured. In the afternoon the transfer of tickets and all other Midland property was made to the Rio Grande, and the employes expressed themselves as greatly gratified with the change. All trains on the Midland to day will leave on schedule time from the Rio Grande depot. A circular was distributed on the streets yesterday announcing the change and stating that the Rio Grande depot will hereafter be known as the "Union depot." Mr Martin Monroe, an expert engineer of the Rio Grande, was in the city yesterday, having brought the Midland extras. The Midland, it is stated, will run its own trains to Denver hereafter with its own crews in charge. A gentleman prominently connected with the Midland stated that the road would save fully $100,000 each year by the new arrangement.

A Serious Charge.

David Weaver, part owner of a Manitou livery stable and also formerly in business in this city, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with the crime of rape.

A warrant was sworn out against Weaver by a girl named Millie Adams yesterday and about 6 o'clock he was arrested and brought to this city by Constable Case. Justice Walker set the bail at $2000 and set the case for hearing at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Weaver stated last night that he had not secured counsel, but characterized the suit as an attempt to force him into a marriage. It will be remembered that Weaver was bound over by a Colorado City justice last spring upon charges of having robbed Charles Church, of this city, his employer, but that the grand jury failed to find a true bill in the case. He is a young Englishman and formerly connected with an undertaking establishment of the city.

The girl, Millie Adams, is about 19 years old and rather comely in appearance but is somewhat deaf. She is employed as a domestic in a family at Manitou.

Shenandoah.

Bronson Howard's great war play, "Shenandoah," will be produced at the opera house this evening by the original New York company. On the closing night of "Shenandoah" at Proctor's General Sherman, who was present, was called on for a speech, and he responded in the following words:

"I said to the proprietor that there was to be no speech making here, as 'Shenandoah' was all action, and the scenes and the words that you have just heard come near a war. Of course it is impossible to carry on a battle on a small stage like this, but I can say for 'Shenandoah' that its scenes are life like and I have been always charmed with the play and the bugle calls. They are true and correct, and the Three Top mountain scene is very good indeed. And the actors and actresses of Shenandoah, to them one and all I give my heartiest thanks for many pleasant evenings in this theater, and the crowded house to night proves what a hold 'Shenandoah' has on the patriotic feelings of the public."

Impressed by the action of the city council a few days ago, by which the fire department will be increased by sixty five members, two young darkies conceived the idea that another hose company was a crying need. Their start was small. They had two names, their own, Charlie Robinson and Clarence Bell, on the muster roll but no equipment. Their first act was to secure a name for the company. They canvassed the names of several prominent citizens of the county for one man sufficiently worthy of the honor and finally settled upon the name of one of the most distinguished of American horses. They called it the "Maud S. Hose company". If they had stopped content at this point they would not now be occupying a cell in the city prison, but their patriotic zeal carried them too far. They saw in a two wheeled painter's truck a good foundation for a first class hose jumper and appropriated it without the usual condemning process required by law. For this oversight Captain Gathright arrested them and the city will have to get along with its present complement of only 200 firemen.

On account of the impossibility of securing stone for the foundations, work on the handsome new building of the First Baptist church has been somewhat delayed. The foundations are now nearly completed, however, and it is hoped there will be no further delay. The members of the congregation feel greatly encouraged in this great undertaking by the knowledge that they have many friends outside the city willing to give them substantial aid. During his visit to the east, Rev Mr. Montague raised about $5000 for the building, with more to follow. It is thought the corner stone can be laid in two or three weeks.

Mr F Neff is having a basement put in the lower portion of the building occupied by his harness shop on South Tejon street, and will occupy it with a large line of trunks, valises, etc. A factory will be started in connection with the establishment for the manufacture of trunks and satchels.

There are undelivered messages at the Western Union telegraph office for C. E Stock, Miss Mary C. White, Mrs. S. Weigert, and Prof. W H Henderson.

MANITOU SPRINGS.

The Raymond-Whitcomb party leave to morrow noon.

The Barker gives its opening hop of the season to night.

Mrs D L Sterling is making a visit among friends in Denver.

Mr and Mrs H. J Adams, of Denver, are among the late arrivals at the Iron Springs.

—The Iron Springs is entertaining Father Carr, of Denver, a clergyman of one of the Catholic churches of that city and editor of the Colorado Catholic.

Miss L. Baker and Miss A. M. Darling, who have been spending the past month at the Sunny Side, leave for their home in Boston with the Raymond excursion next Saturday.

Mr and Mrs George Adams, of Melbourne, Australia, and Mr and Mrs A. J. Crawford, of Durban Natal, South Africa, are a party at the Barker who are making a trip around the world.

The remaining two engines for the Pike's Peak road are completed and have been shipped from the Baldwin Locomotive works. They will probably be on the ground the latter part of next week.

Steps are being taken to widen the Iron Springs road in several places. A survey has already been made of the road in front of Norman C. Jones' place, which is to be widened to forty feet.

Quite a party of Ruxton guests consisting of Mrs McKinney, Mrs Sheridan, Miss Carlton, the Misses Gordons, Mr Craig and Mr and Mrs Hood made a trip to Crystal Park yesterday and spent the day.

The new building of the Manitou Mineral Water company is nearly done and the offices will be moved in a few days. Yesterday the boxes and lumber were being cleared away from the park and stowed away in the building. Grass seed is to be sown at once over the park.

NOTICE.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., June 18th, 1890.

To Whom It May Concern:

Being informed that Mr James Graham says I sold my milk route to him before selling the same to the Broadmoor Dairy Company, I take this means of informing the public that any such assertion is false, and further that my late employes have not got the slightest claim to this route, inasmuch as I paid them fully for any services rendered while it was being "BUILT UP" at my expense.

Respectfully yours,
R. HILLHOUSE.

VERY IMPORTANT NOTICE

"Hillhouse" wagons have been delivering Broadmoor milk. These wagons we were engaged to drive by Mr. Hillhouse, grocer. Having made Mr. Hillhouse an offer for his wagons, horses and the good will of the business, which we built up for him, and said offer not being accepted, we respectfully announce to our friends and patrons that we have arranged with F. W. Isham, manager of the Garden ranch, to supply milk, cream, butter, etc., in refrigerator wagons.

Respectfully,
GRAHAM BROS.

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 16, 1890.

This is to certify that in my business relations with the Graham boys I trusted them fully, and I have no reason to believe but that every cent they have collected for me has been accounted for.

"Shenandoah," the great war play at the opera house to night.

The Capitols meet Colorado Springs in a cricket match Saturday.

It is thought the electric cars will be started some time next week

The members of the A. M. E. church netted about $80 by their excursion to Palmer Lake.

Manager W. J. Foster, of the Woodland park company, is able to be upon the streets again after a two weeks' illness.

The first case of the city vs William Scott was cleared up in the county court yesterday, Scott paying the fine and the costs.

The Stillman Giants wish to notify the Monument nine that they will play them here at any time for "fun, money, or marbles."

Mrs. Zella Finch, of Wichita, Kan., arrived in the city yesterday to visit during the summer with her cousin, Mr. J. P. Bowman and family.

A miniature ship in full sail, on real water and loaded with precious stones, is an attractive advertisement in the window of Ashby's jewelry store.

A six round glove contest for $100 a side is announced to take place at Colorado City to-night between Jim Bates and George Hull, a glass blower.

Mrs Mary Ann Capps, wife of Leonard K Capps, died at her home near Husted post office, El Paso county, Colo., at 10 a m June 8, 1890, aged [illegible] years

Mr J. D Duncan, the local correspondent of the Denver News, and Mrs America Smith, of this city, were quietly married yesterday afternoon by Rev H H Bell

The Sunday school of the First M. E church picniced at Palmer Lake yesterday and all had a delightful time. The attendance was very large, requiring four cars to carry the party

All classes have been and are going to see "Shenandoah" It appeals to every taste, apparently, and even the unnaturalized citizens understand and feel in sympathy with its patriotism

The real estate firm of Plumb & Walker have sold this week block 3 in De La Vergne's addition to E H Rich, also improved property in east part of city. The two sales aggregate $7500

Mr J. C Plumb yesterday selected the following committee to draw up a constitution for the Iowa society and to make full arrangements for the celebration of Iowa day. John H. Bacon, W. E McLain, H P Bosworth, L. H Gowdy and Thomas E Rudd.

Hon. W. W Whipple, special agent in charge of the recorded indebtedness of the Eleventh census district, arrived in the city yesterday to oversee the work being done by Mr Abbott. Mr. Whipple has appointed Police Magistrate S H. Kinsley to assist in the work.

Captain Saxton wishes the members of Company A to be at the armory this evening at 7 30 o'clock that there may be some preliminary rehearsal before the play. The company participates in Shenandoah to-night Part of the scenery and the thoroughbred horse used in the play arrived yesterday. They were not used at other towns on the circuit

Will McMannus is the foreman of the gang of men engaged in excavating the under crossing on South Tejon street Yesterday Michael Burke was engaged to work there and went to work with a team His labor did not suit McMannus, who remonstrated with him. Burke did not know he was talking to the boss and told him to go to the sultry locality not down on the map of Colorado, but which is said to be reached through an easy gate and over a broad and well traveled path. McMannus thereupon maintained his dignity by striking Burke, for which he paid $10 and costs in the police court yesterday.

The meeting of the Soldiers' home committee at the office of Mr. Anthony Bott, in Colorado City, last night, was a very enthusiastic one Although no subscription papers have been formally circulated, yet it was reported that a surprising number of people had promised to subscribe. A large part of the evening was employed in discussing means of assuring the selection of the site here, provided the $25,000 was raised and it was decided to make the establishment of this point of a soldiers' home an issue in the elections next fall. It was strongly advised by different members of the committee that the organization keep pushing the institution, when founded, until nationalized The meeting was adjourned until 7.30 next Monday evening at Dr. Bartlett's office in this city.

Prof. Louis G Carpenter, of the state agricultural college at Fort Collins, is making some official investigations for the United States government as to the underground and artesian water supply of Colorado. Captain DeCoursey, president of our board of trade, has written to him calling his attention to the immense underground water flow in certain valleys near this city, and suggesting that instead of expending all the fund appropriated to these investigations in the vicinity of Denver, he might, advantageously spend some of it south of the Divide, and particularly at points between Colorado Springs and Fountain Any of the citizens of the county who have certain knowledge of extraordinary underground water supply near the earth's surface, will perhaps confer a public service by informing Captain DeCoursey of the exact localities of such copious supply.

The cricket game to morrow against the Capitols of Denver promises to be a good one. It may be remembered that last year the Springs team scored an easy victory over this club mainly through the splendid batting of Messrs King and De Coursey. This year the Capitols are a good deal stronger and only the other day beat the Denver cricket club, which is the best team in the state. The [illegible] presence of Mr. S. W. Vidler, the instructor of the Athletic club, who is as much at home with the bat as he is with the foils, being a great acquisition. There is also a chance of Mr. Scott, the well known Philadelphia cricketer, being on the home team, which will give all lovers of cricket an opportunity to see some batting such as we seldom do see in the west. Play will commence at 12.30 and stumps drawn at 6 p. m.
